Cox is not near so anxious to have the state abandon the canals as he is to have the legislature abandon the probe.

If the people had it to do over again they would elect the whole Democratic state ticket and a Democratic legislature. They can see now where they made a mistake last fall but they can rectify it next year and have their minds already made up to do so. It will be "Harmon and a clean sweep" next year.

President Taft begins his administration with a deficit in the treasury amounting to nearly $87,000,000. The government receipts for the month of February amounted to $46,671,709, a decrease of over $1,600,000 as compared with February of last year. The expenditures amounted to $53,229,000, a decrease of over $3,500,000 as compared with the corresponding month of last year. The excess of expenditures over receipts for the month amounted to over $6,500,000, or about $1,900,000 less than the excess on the same date for February of 1908. The receipts for the eight months of the fiscal year ending with February amounted to $387,575,002, a decrease of nearly $27,600,000 as compared with the corresponding period of the preceding fiscal year. The expenditures, on the other hand, amounted to $479,946,735, an increase of over $31,500,000 as compared with the like period of the fiscal year 1907-08. The excess of expenditures for the eight months amounted to over $86,300,000. This is over three times the amount of the deficit at the end of the eight months' period a year ago, which was something over $27,200,000.

LABOR AND THE TARIFF.

The alleged benefits of protection to the American workman is one of the state arguments of the standard-bearer. How able a high protective tariff assists the man who works in our paper mills developed at hearings before the select committee of Congress on pulp and paper. John Norris, one of the witnesses, proved conclusively that little, if any, of the tariff benefit created through duties on pulp and paper was shared by the workman in the paper-making industry. He who showed that paper workers in New York State, where production is heaviest, received less than any other class of organized labor. The average was $10.94 a week, which might be considered almost living wage in some communities. In some of the other States engaged in the same industry the wage was even less.

Claims of the high protectionists; do not stand the test. Their glittering generalizations are vastly misleading. It is an open question whether the tariff on pulp and paper should not be lifted entirely. The congressional committee has recommended that a reduction from $6 to $2 a ton be made. Congress can go that far, at least, without injustice to the paper manufacturer.

RECEIVING ENEMIES UNAWARES.

Of the 73 species of tree-destroying insects and parasites of this country 37 are of foreign importation. These have been brought in on fruits, specimens and plants by way of packing materials and boxes as worms, eggs, cocoons and nests. Like the San Jose scale, the boll weevil and the gypsy moth, which is making havoc in New England, these pests have made little trouble in their native climes, being kept down by natural enemies. But when brought in here, unfortunately, it takes time and a lot of experimentation to determine what the controlling factor is. The San Jose scale is doing wide-spread damage and calls for vigorous and vigilant costly spraying. No parasite or other enemy for it or for the boll weevil which bothers the cotton growers so seriously has been found. Producers of all kinds of fruits and other similar products are growing more vigilant for prevention. The cost of fighting these pests already imported is a prodigious and growing one.

The balance of nature is not to be trifled with lightly. Those who would introduce new varieties of plants must beware lest with some advantage they bring in great evils. Puny man can start great things but he cannot always tell how far they are going to go or in what direction, nor is he able to stop them when he wants to.

FOOLED AGAIN.

Our new president was very emphatic in his inaugural address on the subject of injunctions in labor disputes. He said: "As to that my convictions are fixed. Take away from courts, if it could be taken away, the power to issue injunctions in labor disputes, and it would create a privileged class among the laborers and save the lawless among their number from a most useful remedy available to all men for the protection of their business against lawless invasion."

Mr. Taft did not talk that way during the campaign. In his speeches last fall he assumed to be the only real and true friend of labor, and his own injunctions were defended as blessings conferred upon laboring men without their knowing it. Gompers and other labor leaders tried last fall to make their fellow workingmen believe that Mr. Taft's convictions on injunctions are fixed, which he now admits Mr. Taft would probably be willing to admit. If pressed for an answer, that Gompers and Mitchell belong to the "lawless" element of laboring men.

Evidently the laboring men were fooled again in the presidential campaign last fall, as they were in 1904 by Roosevelt and in 1900 and 1896 by Mark Hanna. Mr. Taft no sooner takes the oath of office as president than he announces that his convictions as to injunctions in labor disputes are fixed.

Will the laboring men of the United States be able to remember this significant remark until the next presidential campaign.

INAUGURATION DAY.

Mr. Taft will be inaugurated president of the United States today. For a week now, the prophets have been busy. Everybody is telling everybody else what everybody expects the new chief executive will do. Pessimists and optimists alike are having their hour. It is ever thus on the eve of a presidential inauguration. We are seized with the contagion and our only regret is that the hour does not call for a real prophet, for truly there can be no very great genius required to predict the policy that a man elected to the presidency of this nation will follow. Few men who have not been long in the limelight attain to the presidential chair. We know what these men have done in the past and we have their promises for the future. Prophets are valueless save as they point out unseen problems with which an incoming administration will be confronted. Mr. Taft, we think, will make a very virile president. He will take the initiative more frequently than some people imagine. He will be more conservative, perhaps, than his predecessor, but probably not less emphatic in his declaration of principles. He will not be called upon to inaugurate a great deal of new reform work, for that already in hand is sufficient to keep the machinery of government busy for several years. Mr. Roosevelt has plastered the Union with his policies; Mr. Taft's work, in the main, will consist in seeing that the plaster holds. The new president's messages to congress are not likely to make as interesting reading as those of his predecessor, because he has not Mr. Roosevelt's vigorous style of writing, but that does not imply less clear vision or lack of insight into the problems of the times.

Agreeable Surprise.

The teacher, G. A. Daly, and pupils of Rudy's school, district No. 3, Jackson township, were favorably surprised last Thursday by the patrons of the district. A sumptuous dinner was served, of which all freely indulged. After dinner it was suggested by Mr. Shafer, who was manager of the affair, that the classes should recite and a lesson in poetry and one in prose be read.

After the completion of these recitations, the teacher called for remarks. Several responded and expressed their heart's interest towards the progress of the school, and its future contingency along the cause of education. The teacher then spoke on the subject: "How Can the Cooperation of Teacher, Parent and Pupil Be Best Attained?" The school then sang "America," after which a spelling contest was agreed upon. The school spelling against 15 parents and former pupils of the school, and a grand victory resulted in favor of the school.

Surprise at Pleasant Grove School.

The teacher and pupils of Pleasant Grove were treated to a grand surprise Friday about 11 o'clock when a number of the patrons of the district came in with well filled baskets and demanded an unconditional and immediate surrender. It was not long until a bounteous table was spread to which all who were present did ample justice. In the afternoon a program, consisting of recitations and songs, was rendered by the school. A splendid address was given by Rev. Reuben Shroyer in which he gave the boys and girls much wholesome advice. Remarks were also made by several others present and the day was greatly enjoyed by all present. The school contemplates holding a literary in the near future. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. M. COURT HOUSE

SEEKS TO REGAIN PROPERTY.

Suit was commenced in common pleas court yesterday morning by Carolina McCurdy against Joseph McCurdy and George H. White in which the plaintiff seeks to have declared void a recent sale of the McCurdy block between the defendants and to regain possession of property decided to Joseph McCurdy. The petitioner avers that she entered into an agreement with J. H. McCurdy whereby she was to be kept during her lifetime by the defendant and that he was to pay a certain sum for the transfer of the property.

The plaintiff asks the court to appoint a receiver to manage the real estate involved which is located in this city and Cuyahoga county and that the defendants be enjoined from collecting any rents. It is alleged in the petition that Joseph McCurdy has refused to give an accounting of rents and that the sale of the McCurdy block to George H. White was done by connivance. Further, that all the money due the plaintiff be considered as a first lien on the premises if a receiver be appointed. No receiver was appointed yesterday by the court.

J. G. Haymaker has filed a petition in common pleas court in which he asks that a receiver for a butchering and meat business conducted by himself and Charles H. Cooper at Minerva be appointed and the partnership dissolved. The plaintiff alleges that he entered into a verbal agreement with the defendant to open a meat establishment on October 14, 1908, each putting in a like sum of money. Also that in case a partner should put in more money that he was to be reimbursed out of the first profits. $225.15 was paid out by the plaintiff for various things needed to carry on the business. Plaintiff asks that the receiver appointed have the power to sell all of the stock of meats and that he be paid his capital contributed to business and also his equitable share of the profits.

TO QUIET TITLE.

Manias-Bolender has brought action against Carrie Bolender to have a title quieted. Plaintiff alleges that he is the owner of lot 308 in this city in which the defendant claims some interest that is hostile to his rights. Further that defendant has no claim or interest in said lot and that the claim is unfounded.

Ely's Cream Balm releases the secretions that inflame the nasal passages and the throat, whereas medicines made with mercury merely dry up the secretions and leave you no better than you were. In a word, Ely's Cream Balm is a real remedy, not a delusion. All at the Christian Church Sunday evening, druggists, 50 cents, or mailed by Ely Brothers, 10 Warren Street, New York.
